2 NYPD Cops Shot in Bronx, Both Expected to Survive

(NBC) Two NYPD officers were shot while on routine patrol inside a public housing complex in the Bronx Tuesday night, but both are expected to survive, officials say. The incident unfolded inside the Melrose Housing complex in the South Bronx at about 8 p.m., officials said at a news briefing Thursday night. Three officers assigned to Police Service Area 7 -- the unit that patrols public housing within the NYPD's 40th and 42nd precincts -- were conducting vertical patrol inside a building when they encountered two people in the sixth-floor stairwell. One of the men shot at the officers, wounding two of them -- one in the face and one in the abdomen, officials said. The gunman fled into a seventh-floor apartment where an acquaintance lived. He ran to the back of the apartment, pulled out a gun and screamed, "I just shot a cop, I'm not going back to jail," then shot himself, sources told NBC 4 New York. Responding officers got into the apartment and found the suspect dead of an apparent self-inflicted gunshot wound, officials said at the briefing. Neighbors said police swarmed the area immediately. "The cops just started running over, 'cause the police station is right down the block, so all the cops came running down here right away," said one neighbor. "Everything was quiet and then all of a sudden boom, boom, boom, all over the place, and I came outside to see what was going on," another resident, Giselle Cruz, said. The other person from the stairwell turned himself in to police, but police do not believe he is connected to the shootings, sources said. Police are speaking to the other people who were inside the apartment at the time. Officers recovered a shotgun and a semiautomatic weapon at the scene. Police were in the process of obtaining a search warrant to recover more evidence from the apartment. The injured officers were taken to Lincoln Hospital, where they were said to be in stable condition. Sources had initially said one of the officers was critically wounded. Mayor Bill de Blasio said the officers were alert and communicating.

ISIL's presence in Libya grows to 5,000 fighters

(AI JAZEERA) ISIL fighters have streamed into Libya in recent months, heightening fears the fighters are gaining ground and influence in the divided north African country. About 5,000 Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant fighters are now in Libya - double earlier estimates - while the number in Iraq and Syria has dropped, a security analyst said on Thursday. The updated figures come as the US administration of President Barack Obama faces growing calls for the American military to step up action against ISIL in Libya, where fighters have already seized the city of Sirte and an adjoining length of Mediterranean coastline. Patrick Skinner, a former CIA case officer now with The Soufan Group consultancy, said the US has few good Libya options, but there is growing consensus something must be done. They are just terrified of it getting much worse, fast," Skinner told the AFP news agency. "Once ISIL takes something, it's really hard and really bloody and really expensive to take it back." NATO defense ministers are meeting in Brussels next week to evaluate the ongoing US-led campaign against ISIL and to discuss ways of redoubling efforts. No large-scale US military action is contemplated in Libya, senior US administration officials told the Associated Press news agency. Military options under consideration include raids and advisory missions by US special operations forces and air strikes, the officials said on condition of anonymity. "The last thing in the world you want is a false caliphate with access to billions of dollars of oil revenue," John Kerry, the US secretary of state, said on Tuesday.

SBA Offers Disaster Assistance to California Small Businesses Economically Impacted by the 2015 Dungeness Crab Season Delay and Rock Crab Fishery Closure

- The U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) is offering low-interest federal disaster loans to California small businesses that have suffered financial losses due to the ocean conditions resulting in the delayed Commercial Dungeness Crab Season that was set to open on November 15, 2015, and the November 6 closure of the Commercial Rock Crab Fishery that is normally open year-round, SBA Administrator Maria Contreras-Sweet announced today.
- By declaring a disaster, Administrator Contreras-Sweet's action makes low-interest Economic Injury Disaster Loans (EIDL) available immediately to help meet financial needs caused by the Commercial Dungeness Crab Season delay and the closure of the Commercial Rock Crab Fishery. SBA acted under its own authority to declare a disaster following a request SBA received on January 27, 2016, from Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr.'s designated representative, Mark S. Ghilarducci, director of the Governor's Office of Emergency Services.
- The declaration covers the primary California counties of Alameda, Butte, Contra Costa, Del Norte, El Dorado, Humboldt, Lake, Marin, Mendocino, Nevada, San Francisco, San Luis Obispo, San Mateo, Santa Cruz and Sonoma, and the neighboring counties of Alpine, Amador, Colusa, Glenn, Kern, Kings, Monterey, Napa, Placer, Plumas, Sacramento, San Benito, San Joaquin, Santa Barbara, Santa Clara, Sierra, Siskiyou, Solano, Stanislaus, Sutter, Tehama, Trinity, Yolo and Yuba in California; Douglas and Washoe counties in Nevada; and Curry and Josephine counties in Oregon.

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Eureka Weather:

A weak front will bring another chance for light rain this evening. High pressure is building into the area for the weekend and into early next week bringing dry weather to the area.

Medford Weather:

A long wave ridge now over the west coast will break to the east later this morning and the next long wave trough will move in, weakening as it does so. The first short wave will move onshore Friday afternoon, followed by the trough itself Friday evening. Most of the precipitation will be directed to the north of California

Reno Weather:

High pressure over California will build over the great basin through much of next week. This will keep dry conditions over the eastern sierra and western Nevada with generally light winds and valley inversions. A steady warming trend is expected with daytime temperatures well above normal by next week.

San Francisco Weather:

High pressure builds through the weekend leading to above normal temperatures Sunday and Monday when record highs may be possible. The ridge weakens slightly by Tuesday or Wednesday but dry weather stays in place.

Sacramento Weather:

A little light rain across the northwest corner of the state this evening, otherwise dry and warm conditions expected through at least the middle of next week. Daytime highs well above normal early next week.

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY:

Hanford Weather:

A ridge of high pressure will bring dry weather to the central California interior for the next several days with patchy night and morning fog in the San Joaquin valley. A day to day warming trend will bring high temperatures to well above normal by Sunday. The nights will be seasonably chilly through the period.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

Strong high pressure and offshore flow will dominate the weather through next week. There will be a warming trend through Monday, with well above normal to near record high temperatures Sunday through midweek. A slow cooling trend is expected Wednesday and Thursday.

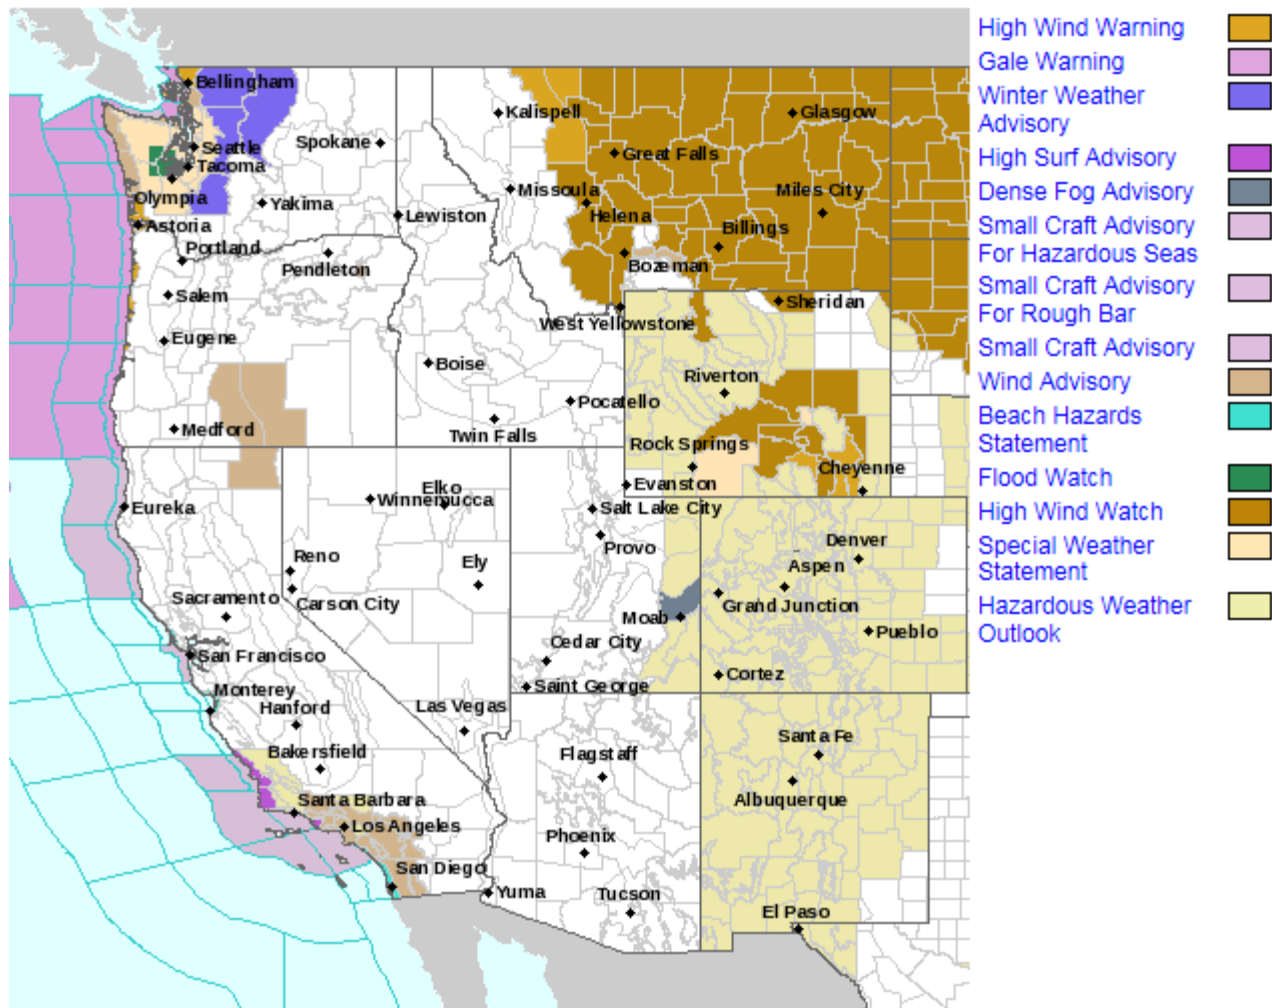

Extreme Southwestern California including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

Fair and unseasonably warm with gusty offshore winds through early next week. Cooler for Wednesday through Friday with weakening offshore winds.

Southeast California Weather:

High pressure will be the dominating weather feature for the region through much of next week. This will bring mostly clear skies and a warming trend to the area.
